

Let's Talk

"MAN O' THE PEOPLE" Writes on "Things That Matter to You and Me"

ON the tenth anniversary of his accession to power in Germany on the great day of all days when the Führer should have proclaimed the glory of the Third Reich which is "in its last years," Adolf Hitler ran away from his own people. Whether he was fleeing the brazen doors of his mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden, or whether he was "covering behind the brazen doors of his mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden," the outstanding fact remains that this plump, blood-stained caricature of a Napoleon dared not listen to the future march of the nation he has betrayed.

No flag was allowed to be flown in Nazi Germany. All semblance of celebration was "verboten," a public mourning in full dress in the disaster of Stalingrad; its brothers killed on the Voronezh front; its comrades who have died "Kamerad" to the avenging Russian armies.

But the Royal Air Force did not fail to celebrate this historic occasion. Its bombers were over Berlin in broad daylight before the great and grossly benighted chief of the Luftwaffe dared to speak in the Führer's place. All of them returned safely.

And Field Marshal Hermann Goerring, impudent in his fury, could only console his disciplined audience with the vain promise that one day when the immense pressure on Germany's faltering frontiers has eased—he will remember this insult and repay it.

"MAN O' THE PEOPLE" has been accused by some of his readers of "wishful thinking" because he has asserted and reiterated his belief that Germany may be defeated this year and that, in any case, when the crack does come, it is likely to come suddenly and with devastating effect.

Let these cautious souls read the extracts from Goering's astounding speech, which is published in our news pages. Then let them ask themselves whether any leader or deputy leader of a great victorious nation has ever dared to utter such pathetic admissions and such deplorable admissions.

Certainly this writer has never heard anything like this before. The new came through on the tape machine he was, at first, so firm in his expectation of reading the old old tidbits of German wares and rights of the pluriethnic Bolshevik conspiracy and of the great Jewish plot to destroy the "Herrenvölk."

All this dreary balderdash was repeated with the faithful echo of the mad master's voice. But then the whole tone and manner

AIRGRAPHS FOR PREFERENCE

By sending Airgraphs you set free Aircraft space of vital importance to the war effort.

Airgraphs are so light and compact that four thousand film letters weigh only about 1 lb.

That is why Airgraphs receive first priority over all forms of correspondence and always go by Air throughout.

So when you write to the Forces in the Middle East and beyond, for preference send an Airgraph.

GREASE
—even with Cold Water!

At first you can't quite believe it. "Cold water," you say. And then you try it. You find how quick it is to get rid of that greasy, greasy stuff that every man, woman and child, that dastardly VIM needs no coupons. So you're free these days to use it. Good old VIM—it's just what the housewife wants to see.

LEVER BROTHERS, PORTLAND, ENGLAND

shall never be driven out of it again!—was so poor a thing that one could well wonder at his reluctance to pour his words into any public platform.

Goebbels, on the other hand, spoke more to the point, and in much firmer tones. He threatened those who were "covering behind the brazen doors of his mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden" that it would have to proclaim martial law.

He said that she did not lack reserves and that, when spring comes round again, we shall see our enemies feel their weight.

I cannot believe that this thin, toothless, truculent will do much to lighten the burdened and depressed German people. It is certainly not keen enough to carry the least share of apprehension among the United Nations.

If there is some feeling of disappointment at the outcome of the Casablanca conference, it may be that so many people had set their eyes on a more brilliant future.

General satisfaction will also be felt at the announcement that the President and the Prime Minister have been in touch with the German Ambassador in London, and that they have agreed to assist him in his "magnificent and unflinching struggle for the liberation of Europe."

Under the stress of battle in Europe, Africa and the Pacific, some of us may have given little thought to the human value and desperate need of the "Man o' the People."

It has been stated recently that our supplies are reaching China now that we need to reach the Burma Road. "Man o' the People" is a large-scale campaign in Burma and the reopening of the vital Burma Road.

Unfortunately there is a little bit of the two general chivalrous hands to encourage the belief that Goebbels and de Gaulle are even within sight of an understanding which would end the confused and unhappy political situation in North Africa.

The French Press in North Africa even cut de Gaulle out of this picture and "placed him in their reports, and there is no doubt that the pro-French air force in French North Africa is entirely out of sympathy with the Fighting French."

For my own part, I do not see how de Gaulle could work happily with any team which includes men like Reynaud and Laval.

But it seems to me that nobody expects a half-wit can ignore this move. In all circumstances, he told about it often enough, and now he is being told that he is really being the wiser if he were to ignore the actual total of the reported ships.

The "People's" takes the view that Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt, keeping France's Sixth Fleet in the Atlantic, would not have dared to force a great new offensive in Europe unless they had reason to believe that the United Nations will have the necessary shipping to see it through.

Total victory for the United Nations is no longer in doubt even among the more cautious neutrals. Its date is uncertain. But the only "contingency" in which this writer is afraid is that the United Nations will not have the great peace after the last gun has been fired in this great and terrible war.

Nazi Command Fear "Earthquake"

"Little secret is made of Nazi High command fears that if Russian pressure is maintained at its present rate, a simultaneous major attack from the West might produce all the devastation of an earthquake on the whole Nazi structure—and with as little warning."

HITLER'S THREE POSSIBLE PLANS FOR DEFEAT

FROM OUR DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

ALL-OUT intensification of the U-boat war, stabilisation of the Russian front and a terrific production drive are the most serious of the objectives in Nazi preparations to counter Allied attack from the west.

Though the Casablanca conference has slipped the nose round the Nazi future, the Russian offensive continues to twist the tail of the Nazi present.

The manner in which the Axis is reacting to the combination of Soviet pressure and Allied preparations to continue the strangling process when Zhukov's momentum dies down—if not before—is its own measure of their fear.

The force of events has wrecked the truth about German defeats out of the masses can take it.

Never before has the Führer's headquaters been so still to be seen whether the masses can take it.

But even the most optimistic among them thought they would be lucky to save some of their gains by a form of negotiated peace.

The Churchill-Roosevelt decision has destroyed this farce hope, and, as a result, Axis leadership behind the scenes is wallowing in confusion in its search for a way out.

Meanwhile, the belief is growing among expert, neutral, observers that Hitler is being forced to give up the supreme military authority which his "intuition" seized a year ago. He may, in fact, have already done so.

Though the German retreat has not been described in any detail, it is spreading the news of the disaster across the length and breadth of the Reich—under the cover of the "Führer's" and in considerable detail.

Whoever is taking the German great the menace still is "harmless home," every man cannot fail to prevent Allied action here.

Part of a vegetable queue in Oslo, capital of Nazi-occupied Norway. Only two small stalls supply these waiting people.

Starvation Follows the

IN Oslo there is a family of five—a man, his wife and three children. Their income is £250 a year; the same as it was in April, 1940. The Nazis have forbidden any wage-increases to meet the higher cost of living.

This Larsen family has had to pull in its belt considerably; and already the ravages of undernourishment are beginning to show. . . . They live in a four-roomed flat not far from the centre of the city. It used to be a cosy little place with central heating and a blazing fire in winter time. . . . On the morning of which I wrote they were awakened as usual by the sound of tramping feet and the shouted commands of German officers. It was dark and the sky was grey.

But the snow lay wet on the streets now; its crispness had disappeared with the coming of an unaccountable mild spell. The rooms were cold and damp, and there would be no central heating or fire that day. . . . No fuel! The Germans want it.

Mother, whose hair has turned grey since 1940, looked tired and worn as she moved about. She had been up all night with her husband, who was waiting for the shop to open at 7 o'clock that morning to get a quarter of a pound of margarine.

That's the only way you can make sure of getting margarine, says Larsen. . . . Two nights ago she had queued all night for some whale meat. She had been lucky then, and the family had feasted royally on cold cuts of whale.

Margarine had been short in recent months because in November the Germans took all butter and margarine supplies. With it they baked Christmas cakes for the Nazi soldiers.

Not only margarine, but almost every other kind of food the hungry hordes of Hitler pounced upon, stripping the countryside bare, robbing even a meagre store of food from the people who had hoarded it.

Mother prepared the breakfast of cold cuts, coffee, baked potatoes, which this morning was covered with a thin film of margarine. And they had the usual suburban coffee.

That's the only way you can make sure of getting margarine, says Larsen.

saw the report of the "Minister" of Supply about food.

He read that the validity of the ration cards would be extended until "more supplies were available."

That the most serious shortage was wheat and would not improve owing to the lack of feedstuffs for cattle and pigs.

He looked at his wife and his heart ached for her. The look she had, then he knew, was the look of a woman who had better paper which he had taken from the letterbox, placed there by an unknown postman.

He smiled with satisfaction when he read this "liberal" paper.

He did not expect the present regime to give them relief from hunger and cold.

Everyone has looked for food and shelter in the winter of hunger and cold.

But the winter of hunger and cold is still with us. It is still with us. It is still with us.

IN Norway, once one of the best-fed countries of Europe, the theft by the Nazis of the nation's food beginning to have a serious effect on the health of the people, and the ravages of under-nourishment are now everywhere apparent.

IN this article the writer describes a typical day in the life of an ordinary Norwegian family and the everyday brutalities of the Nazis in the streets of Oslo.

The principal buildings hung the Swedish flag. The Germans were enraged and tried to get rid of them, but they always came back.

about him, knocked him down and generally maltreated him, whilst the little boy looked on. Then they found a policeman, ordered the father to be arrested, and soon he was driven away to who knows where?

What is that mother saw during the day's shopping expedition. . . . the usual thing.

The family sat round the dinner table. Today the fare was good, and the delicacy of salted herring with cabbage soup was turned out.

They used to have fresh fish, but now all the thousands of tons of fish go to feed the German army at home.

Stores of fishing catch provide enough meals in Germany for several weeks in the year. The Norwegians? They get the protection of the Nazis.

The official meat ration is 200 grammes a week, but most consider themselves lucky if they get a small piece of meat.

They said round the table that the 1-1-1-1 and 1-1-1-1 of the German army started to trap and set 500 traps and was expecting to get 1,000 a week.

Mother wondered if she would see the children of the German army, and if lucky enough, the promised herself a trip to the German army.

They talked about the day's shopping expedition, and the fresh air, and the school's expulsions, and the German army.

Canadians Await The Order To Strike NO MORE DEPPES NEXT TIME WE SAY

BY A. W. HELLIWELL

THERE will be no more Deppes for the Canadian Army. When it lands again on the Continent it will stay and finish the job.

This was made clear to me when, after several days spent with Canadian troops in the field, I talked for half an hour with their Commander-in-Chief, General McNaughton.

When he began to speak of the room in which we sat, I was struck by the fact that he was not only a man of action but a man of words. When he told me that the operation which I was to report on was a "buddy" secret, I was not surprised. I was only surprised that he should have said so.

The enemy knew that something had happened, he told me. "At that time," he said, "the position was so bad that we had to do something to relieve the pressure and to show earnest of our good intentions to fight the war."

Will choose the time. "The men are keen, as it is they would prefer to go tomorrow if necessary," said General McNaughton.

General McNaughton told me that he had no operation in mind for them to go to tomorrow. He said that the operation which I was to report on was a "buddy" secret, I was not surprised. I was only surprised that he should have said so.

BRITISH RESCUE ITALIAN SURVIVORS

GRIMMEST WARNING TO GERMAN PEOPLE

Stop Grousing, Work And Die—Goering

GOERING yesterday celebrated the tenth birthday of Nazi rule by making the most sombre speech by any German. He told his once-proud Herrenvolk that they must work for Germany and die for Germany—and do both without grumbling or nagging.

"Once a soldier joins the colours," he said, "his first and most obvious thought is that he will not come home again. If he does come home he should think himself damned lucky and be grateful."

To the grumblers who asked why so many men should die at Stalingrad, he replied, "In the end it comes to the same thing for a soldier whether he dies at Stalingrad, in the African desert or in Norway. He always dies so that his race may live."

To other grumblers who asked why didn't the Luftwaffe retaliate for the bombing of Germany, Goering declared that the aviators would strike—after they had broken the Russian resistance.

The speech contained a series of admissions of Nazi weakness. Here are his main points, with the People's edition of the speech in Italian:

Russians and Anglo-Americans have collapsed under the blows of the brutal strength of Bolshevik philosophy. They have lost their nerve.

So you didn't get that tribute to Bolshevism out of Mein Kampf? Russia fought a war with Finland which was a disaster for her. Russia thought that history has ever known.

So you remember those stories of the Russian people who fought heroically in the streets of Leningrad? You have forgotten that they were not the Russian people, but the German people.

Meanwhile the Russians had built up in a few years a machine which was a masterpiece of engineering. In Poland alone the Russians had more than 1,000 aeroplanes.

Yes, Stalin beat Hitler at his own game.

The old bogey. The Russians say that if they are not beaten by Germany, they will be beaten. Only Germany can present a wall against them.

The old bogey again. We know we shall hear it quite often in the future. It is a pathetic phrase.

It will be appreciated later that Hitler's march against Russia was the most important event in the history of the Western world.

Do not think that the Russian people are the only ones who are fighting. The Russian people are the only ones who are fighting.

Not the Russians but the German people. The first battle of the war was fought by the German people.

Hitler Warns Fight To A Finish

Then, as the Great Emancipator, victors and vanquished but only added: "We must fight doggedly until the whole continent is saved."

The words we may suffer nothing in comparison to what the Germans will suffer if they are swept across Europe.

There was in the proclamation nothing to comfort or daunt the listening millions who trusted in the Führer's word and who now are opening their eyes to the great betrayal.

"We must not wait on providence to grant us victory," he said, adding dramatically: "In this war there will be no such thing as a draw."

"Production must be increased," he said. "Everyone must do his utmost for the freedom and glory of Germany."

He added: "What many German men and women did not know at the beginning of this war is now clear to them. The struggle which has been forced upon us by the enemy is a struggle to decide the continued existence or the destruction of our people."

"GOD WILL BE A JUST JUDGE, BUT OUR TASK IS TO DO OUR DUTY SO THAT WE MAY APPEAR WORTHY BEFORE HIM ACCORDING TO HIS LAWS OF THE STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE."

"If I spare no life and shun no labour to preserve the life of our people for the future, then one day the great hour will strike and our people will be free from their external enemies."

"COLD COMFORT" "My navigator counted the shell bursts, and there were only twelve of them—all extremely inaccurate."

"I watched Berlin lying below me, but just when I was about to be due to burst clouds got between us and the ground. So we went for home."

Now All Are In Mourning

THROUGH the streets of a Belgian city passed the funeral of an S.S. chief.

Near the hearse walked uniformed Belgian soldiers, some watching for snipers who "did not show respect for the corpse."

They pointed on two bored-looking men, standing with their hands in their pockets on the pavement. And they beat them up.

Now the Fascists are in trouble. FOR THE TWO "BORN" MEN THEY BEAT UP WERE GESTAPO OFFICIALS.

ADVERTISERS' ANNOUNCEMENTS

3 BIG "SAVES" EVERY MONDAY

New, scientifically tested Washing Method to meet the needs of Housewives in Wartime

FUEL TIME SOAP You save half a bucket of coal (about 7 lbs.) in each wash. You save 15 minutes in each wash. You save 15 lbs. of soap in each wash.

WORKED out by the Rinsol Washing Laboratories, this washing method takes less fuel and less soap than any other method. It saves you time and money too.

Run off only half the amount of water you used to use, using less water, but it doesn't mean less washing. In this sprinkle two-thirds your usual amount of Rinsol and whisk well into a good lather.

Put your whites in first and leave to soak for 15 minutes, being sure you have sufficient suds to cover the clothes well. Then wash as usual. This is especially so for the Rinsol. It is a little dry Rinsol to form a paste beforehand. After 12 minutes your whites are ready—2 minutes more and they are clean. Washed this way, the clothes come beautiful. Try it. Next Monday, Rinsol No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.
